

HOME FAVORITE BLOGS ABOUT HOW I WEAR MY WINE COUNTRY LIVING/TRAVEL

THE RICH LIFE on a budget

http://therichlifeonabudget.com

Adrienne of "The Rich Life on a Budget" takes the Five Day Blow Out Challenge

BEFORE

DURING

AFTER

When I woke up the next morning and my hair looked like this, I was shocked! My hair rarely looks this good right after I've styled it, let alone after a night of sleeping on it.

Day 1

Visit Halo - a blow dry bar for your perfect style.

What you need: Just $40 & 45 min (and of course a water tight shower cap)

Day 2

Simply brush through the style & reshape. What you need: Great brush & light styling spray

Half-up/half-down. Use dry Day 3 shampoo at the roots & pin up pieces of hair. What you need: Dry shampoo & small barrette or bair clips

Day 4

Backcomb the crown for height & pull hair into a ponytail. A laid back messy updo will also work. What you need: Teasing brush, hair elastic and/ or bobby pins

Back to Halo for another Day 5 perfect blow out! What you need: Just $40 and 45 minutes.

I decided to follow these steps and make my Halo Blow Dry last as long as I could.

I got out my favorite hair tools and products - including a shower cap and prepared myself!

On Day Three, my hair still looked nice enough that I didn't need to pin it up. I just brushed it, added a little dry shampoo at the roots and I was good to go to meet Amy of Denim and Dots for brunch.

By Day 4, I was into pony tail territory. The photo below was taken on Day 5. Can you believe I still had curl? At $40 for a shampoo, blow out and style, you really get your money's worth!

HOME FAVORITE BLOGS ABOUT HOW I WEAR MY WINE COUNTRY LIVING/TRAVEL

THE RICH LIFE on a budget

http://therichlifeonabudget.com

Meet Adríenne

Welcome to The Rich Life on a Budget® where I write about my love of fashion, beauty, healthy living, travel and everything that makes my life rich here in California's Wine Country.